

About LuxSci

Our Mission

Lux Scientiae (LuxSci) is a Massachusetts-based secure web & email hosting corporation founded in 1999 by Erik Kangas, PhD, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. LuxSci's core business is to provide secure, premium email and web services, backed by the best in spam and virus filtering and superior customer service.

LuxSci provides services for thousands of clients located around the globe, ranging from individual users to large corporations. Our products are constantly updated with the latest cutting edge Internet technologies. Whether you are looking for quality email or complete IT outsourcing, you can achieve your goals with LuxSci.

Our Name

LuxSci is short for "Lux Scientiae," "the light of knowledge" in Latin. It is pronounced "lux-sigh."

Our 5 Guiding Principles

- We strive to provide the best and most responsive customer support possible — no matter how large or small the client.
- We provide the most secure and private email environment possible.
- We pledge to conduct our business in an ethical manner by providing constructive services that make the Internet an improved and safer place, and by treating our clients with the respect and fairness they deserve.
- We continually expand our services and features to meet the growing needs of our clients and the marketplace.
- We do not support spam or unsolicited commercial email in any way.

Contact Us

Feel free to contact LuxSci by visiting www.luxsci.com or by emailing sales@luxsci.com. We value your time and will respond promptly.

